Walter Johnson Breaks Losing Streak of the Locals—Huggins' Tribe Being Defeated 5 to 2-Russell Is Pounded Hard.

By JOHN A. DUGAN.

ARNEY, we thank you, the fans thank you, Griffith thanks your your teammates thank you for smashing the long, tiresome losing streak of eleven games checked against the Nationals. Yes, it took the mighty Smokeball Heaver to place a victory in the winning column for the Griffmen, as the Kansas Cyclone proved once more the old slogan "Too Much Johnson" when the Nationals landed the Sabbath battle at the Florida avenue park from Huggins' New York Yankees. The Big Train was just about himself yesterday, for his whiz-bang assortment of twisters breezed by the wrecking crew from Manhattan at such a clip that eight were forced down by strike-out route. Although this Murderers' Row gathered seven afe bingles off the mighty Barney, they were helpless before his tillery fire, as errors and the lucky breaks of baseball counted neir first tally in the fifth session, while he loafed along in the final wo frames, when the Yanks managed to squeeze over one run on quartet of bingles.

Willard Refuses to Pick Referee Until Near Day of Fight

Jess Willard isn't in favor of picking a referee for the big fight until the date is at hand. "My championship is at stake and it is just as well that the referee be not named until near the day of the fight," says Jess. Jess won't admit whom he fa-vors, but he has named a few who he says cannot referee for him.

STEALING SIGNALS.

Ray Schalk, catcher of the White Sox, who, Kid Gleason believes, has a great deal to do with the success of his pitchers has this to say about guarding signist the signal tipper: "Heine Wagner was one of the most dangerous at the game in the league. Wagner had to be watched all the time and he disturbed me more than any other coach. Other fellows who have sharp eyes are Bill Carrigan. Chief Bender and Jack Coombs."

Coombs."
As to studying the batter, Schalk says: "I have watched some wooderful hitters in the American Luague. I have fooled some and have the dope on practically all of them. I have detected a weak spot in every one except Ty Cobb. I confess that I have been unable to find Cobb's weakness as a batter or a base-runner."

Capture Tennis Honors by Defeating Morgan and Moore in Title Doubles At Columbia Club.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

As was generally expected. Conrad B. Boyle and Fred H. Harris yesjenday won the Middle Atlantic States championship doubles title on the Columbia Country Club's courts, defeating Dudley Morgan and J. Ballard Moore, of Chevy Chase, in the final round. This victory makes them eligible to compete in the national doubles event against winners of the other sections for the privilege of challenging the present title holders. From a competitive viewpoint, the match was not particularly scood, for after the opening set it could easily be seen that Doyle and Harris were much the better of the two pairs. In the first set both Doyle and Harris were rather unsteady, while the Chevy Chase pair were at their best. Moore and Morgan ran the count up to 5—1, but their opponents suddenly came to life and took the next eight games, giving them the first set, 7—5, and a 2—0 lead in the cumbed to the inevitable and finally lost out.

After Doyle and Harris "woke up." toward the end of the first, they played good tennis, altough the fact that they have played very little together was in evidence on several occasions when they clashed or both went to the same side of the court, leaving the other side open. Harris showed that his reputation for steadiness is well deserved, and he put up a very creditable game. Morgan was by far the better of the Chevy Chase entrants, as Moore was erratic and
